*St Vincent de Paul Parkville Conference
Winter Appeal, Sincere Thank You*

The Parkville Conference's recent Annual Winter Appeal has been most successful thanks to the generosity of St Carthage's parishioners.

As the winter chills approach the demands for blankets, sleeping bags, doonas and warm clothing increase as well as assistance for paying heating and utility bills in the high-rise housing estates.

Your donations will help us to continue our programs for the destitute and homeless in the inner city areas, asylum seekers and our in-home visits during these cold winter months as well as our education programs for disabled students and remote indigenous primary schools.

Again, our sincere thanks – we are most grateful. Without your generous support, some of our programs would not continue.

We also thank Fr Michael for his continuous espousal of our work.

Refugee in need of accommodation

We have been able to offer two men from The Brigidine Asylum Centre some manual work both in the Church and in the grounds, that contributes to their income. One of them, a qualified mechanical engineer has been working as a laborer in a factory.

He writes...

“Hi everyone,
My name is Farhoud Javadi and I am originally from Iran. I have been living in Brunswick in a single room paying rent. I cannot afford the high rental any longer. I am looking for a room to rent and would be happy to share the costs. Please let me know if you have a room for renting.

My contact number is 0466 905 600

Best regards,

Farhoud

Participants Wanted

Villa maria Catholic Homes and the Cognition and Emotion Research Centre based out of Australian Catholic University are looking for people to try something new. We're looking for new participants to take part in our research study, Memory Train.

One of the hardest parts of running a research study is connecting with the wider community and finding those individuals who are interested in taking part in research. We were wondering if there would be an opportunity to share a little about Memory Train with your Parish attendees.

The Memory Train research project is looking at how brain training may improve memory in adults ages 60 and above. The study involves six weeks of training which is completed in the participant's home on the days of their choice. There are a couple of sessions before and after training to determine whether the training has had any effect.

Everything will be provided to complete the tasks. Some tasks require participants to use a computer, but we stress that participants don't need any computer knowledge or to even own a computer to complete the study. The researchers will guide the participants through the study and offer phone support along the way.

If you think some of the attendees at your Parish might be interested in this study or our other research studies with the Cognition and Emotion Research Centre please contact Nick Koleits (Project Research Assistant) on 03 9230 8189 or email nick.koleits@acu.edu.au so we can discuss the next steps involved. We hope that with your assistance we can contact a new group of participants who may be interested in taking part in important research investigation aging and memory.

Book Launch

Saint Augustine on the Resurrection of Christ

Join members of Catholic Theological College for the launch of Saint Augustine on the Resurrection of Christ: Teaching, Rhetoric, and Reception by Gerald O'Collins SJ AC.

To be launched by Hon. Dr Barry Jones AC

Date/Time: 5.30pm arrival for 6.00pm launch | Thursday 20 July 2017

Venue: Catholic Theological College | 278 Victoria Parade, East Melbourne

Contact and RSVP: Jill Donconvio | Jill.Donconvio@ctc.edu.au

Right into the twenty-first century scholars have examined what St Augustine of Hippo (354–430) taught on the Trinity, freewill and grace, the interpretation of Scripture, the sacraments, and other central themes of Christian faith. Surprisingly, his teaching on Christ's resurrection from the dead has been long neglected. This book aims to fill this important gap. Gerald O'Collins first sets out what Augustine preached and wrote about Christ's personal rising from the dead and about the historical and existential evidence for accepting the resurrection. The second half of the book takes up the enduring significance of this teaching and apologetic and, where necessary, updates Augustine's account of Christ's resurrection. Now resident scholar at Jesuit Theological College (Parkville, Vic), O'Collins has authored or co-authored nearly seventy books, including eight on the resurrection.

If you are unable to attend the launch, you can purchase a copy of Saint Augustine on the Resurrection of Christ by visiting oup.com.au or by contacting the OUP customer service team.
