SPIRITUALITY IN THE PUB

OUR ORGANIZING COMMITTEE HAS BEEN PLANNING AND ARRANGING SPEAKERS FOR 2019

Dennis Green is coordinator and has organized for Fr. Noel Connelly to present on update on what is happening with The Australian Plenary Council to be held in 2020.

Our submissions hopefully will help facilitate renewed perspectives in the life of our Church in the years before us.

One pressing issue to be examined is "Will the Bishops listen to what ideas are being prepared and refined for this Council"

A strategic member of the facilitating team, Fr. Noel Connelly will address these issues.

Wednesday 6th March at 8.00pm at the old "Pumphouse Hotel" now called St Andrews Hotel in Nicholson Street, Fitzroy

St Carthage's Construction Project

The renewal of paths and a public facilities work at St Carthage's Church commenced on Thursday 24th January 2019.

Parishioner Robert Simione is our architect and Gary Utri will be our coordinating builder.

Occupational Health and Safety regulations will be in place, with a temporary toilet available on the Brunswick side of the Church.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEER SUNDAY COLLECTION COUNTERS FOR THIS YEAR!

We wish to draw up a new roster of counters for this year

MONEY
COUNTERS

The roster will commence in February

- ✚ We need 3 counters to count the collection money after the 5pm Sunday Mass.
- ✚ We hope to have enough volunteers that means a roster turn every two months.
- ✚ Counting usually takes between forty minutes and one hour.
- ✚ We plan to have a thank you drinks in February that will bring our volunteers together. We will also give a practical demonstration of the counting procedure.
- ✚ Old and new counters please let Fr. Elligate know that you wish to help out.

What undergraduate units can I study at CTC in 2019?

Begin your study at CTC in 2019 with foundational units such as:

CT1100C

Introducing Catholic Theology

This unit introduces learners to the context, purpose, methods and content of theology in the Catholic tradition. It examines those elements that together constitute a balanced and comprehensive engagement in the search for a deeper understanding of the Christian faith. The Second Vatican Council's understanding of revelation, faith, scripture, tradition and the teaching office of the church will be examined and applied to the church's mission in Australia's multi-religious and non-religious context.

BS1001C

The Biblical World: Texts and Traditions

As an introduction to the world and literature of the Bible, this unit offers an overview of the historical, cultural, social and literary contexts of the literature of the Old and New Testaments. Students will be introduced to topics such as the history of Israel, religion, cult and temple, the Torah, prophesy and wisdom, Gospel and church, and the Jewish and Greco-Roman worlds of the New Testament. The unit will also examine thematic and theological links between the testaments. Topics will be illustrated by specific texts taken from both testaments.

DS1001C

Christian Spirituality: Patristic and Medieval Authors

This unit introduces students to the study of Christian spirituality with some significant examples of Christian literature from the beginning of the Christian movement to the Middle Ages. The focus will be on the study of significant texts in their theological and cultural setting. Students will be required to consider how this relates to the study and living of Christian spirituality today, and to experience some contemporary expressions of aspects of this subject. Examples of texts include: The Letters of Ignatius of Antioch; Athanasius, The Life of Antony; Eastern liturgy and iconography; Gregory of Nyssa, The Life of Moses; Benedict of Nursia, The Holy Rule; selections from Bernard of Clairvaux and Hildegard of Bingen; and selections from medieval women writers, the Rhineland mystics and the English mystical tradition.

Studying theology at CTC is an opportunity to deepen your understanding of your faith and engage in rich theological discussion.
