Vote on the Parish Council Constitution on Saturday 20 and Sunday 21 July 2019 masses

This Weekend

Following a review of your feedback on the exposure draft of the Constitution the interim Parish Council has agreed to put a final version of it to a vote. Copies will be available from the porch of the Church. Rule 11 of the Constitution requires that parishioners receive 21 days' notice of a meeting to adopt the Constitution. We therefore notify you that at each of the three masses on Saturday 20 and Sunday 21 July a member of the Parish Council will attend and conduct a vote by show of hands on the following resolutions:

We the parishioners of St Carthages:

- 1. Approve the terms of the Constitution circulated to us; and
- 2. Appoint the following persons to the interim parish council prior to elections being held under the Constitution in 2020: Fr. Michael Elligate, Heather Weedon, Berise Heasley, Rosemary Sheehan, Richard Olive, Trish McNamara, Jack Rendle and Mark Perica.

Grandmothers against Detention of Refugee Children

Sue Curwood is our resident Grandmother Against Detention

The Maribyrnong Group of Grandmothers Against the Detention of Refugee Children is holding a food drive to support the Food Bank grocery store at the Asylum Seekers Resource Centre in Footscray. This store provides food and other essentials to more than 620 refugees and people seeking asylum each week.

We hope that you will support this initiative by donating food next weekend 27/28 July

The ASRC list of grocery and other items needed is on the attached flyer. Gift cards from department stores such as Coles, Kmart, Big W and Target would also be appreciated. If you wish to donate, but are not able to make direct contact with a member of the Grandmothers Against the Detention of Refugee Children, Maribyrnong Group, you could buy gift card online and have it delivered to:

“CALL NO-ONE FATHER”
(Matt. 23:9)

Presenter Dr Berise Heasley is the author of the recently published book “Call no-one Father- Countering Clericalism in the Catholic Tradition.” Berise describes herself as a “cradle Catholic and mother”, and as “a student of theology but not a theologian.”

In sharing her insights from a thoroughly researched treatment of the book's theme, she will draw upon her skills and long experience as a professional educator, and her sound grasp of the findings of the Second Vatican Council. Her PhD in education was on the teaching of virtues, values and ethics. She will put forward not merely the facts of clericalism but also practical approaches for countering it, knowing full well that simply confronting it head on will not do the job.

The book will be on sale at $35 (payment by credit card preferred).

The St ANDREW'S HOTEL provides a spacious and comfortable atmosphere. Meals available from 6.00pm –7.30pm. Remember: Support the Pub that supports SIP – Dine at the St Andrew's!

MACGEORGE LECTURE - 'How to End the History of Clerical Child Sexual Abuse in the Catholic Church' by Professor Nancy Scheper-Hughes

Tuesday 23 July, 5.30pm-7.30pm,
PLT, Old Arts Building University of Melbourne.
Contact Lauren Sanders: lsanders@unimelb.edu.au

Never one to shy away from controversy, her talk will be based on three decades of studying and intervening in the global 'traffic in children' for sexual gratification by Catholic priests, bishops and cardinals.

Drawing on memoir, ethnography, Church history, Canon Law, and political theology, Professor Scheper-Hughes will explain the foundational causes, ugly consequences, and missed opportunities by the Vatican to end the clerical sexual abuse of children once and for all.

The School's own Dr Dave McDonald, a criminologist whose research explores institutional child sex abuse and the related Royal Commission, will act as a discussant and offer a local perspective.

This event is supported by the Macgeorge Bequest.

Nancy Scheper-Hughes is Professor of Medical Anthropology at the University of California, Berkeley. Her work focuses on the anthropology of the body, hunger, illness, medicine, psychiatry, mental illness, suffering, violence, and genocide which has broad application beyond her field. For the last decade, Scheper-Hughes has been involved in study of global organ trafficking for transplant patients and she currently advises the World Health Organization in this capacity.

Among her most famous works are the books: Saints, Scholars and Schizophrenics: Mental Illness in Rural Ireland (1979), Death without Weeping: The Violence of Everyday life in Brazil (1993), Violence in War and Peace: An Anthology (2003), and Commodifying Bodies (2002). In addition to being an eminent scholar, she has been a life-long activist across a range of issues.

Faculty of Theology and Philosophy guest lecture: Professor Didier Pollefeyt, KU Leuven

Nazism as an attack on Monotheism: Ethics and theology after the Holocaust

The Holocaust casts a heavy shadow over the twenty-first century. The Nazi extermination camps radically call into question the very foundations of Christianity, modernity and the postmodern world. Pollefeyt's work challenges and critically reconstructs ethics and theology by bearing witness to the victims, as well as shedding light on the perpetrators and bystanders, thus providing the basis for a renewed Christian understanding of good and evil for our time.

Pollefeyt has developed a comprehensive and interdisciplinary post-Holocaust ethics and theology, charting questions at the heart of a new synthesis: our concepts of God, the human person and the (post)modern world, as well as our understanding of ecology, politics, education, sacred texts, Christology, interreligious dialogue, forgiveness and reconciliation and eschatology.

This lecture will engage with some of these issues as explored in his latest book.

Didier Pollefeyt is a Catholic theologian and full professor of the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium.

In the Faculty of Theology and Religious studies, he teaches catechetics, religious pedagogy, post-holocaust theology and Jewish-Christian dialogue. As Holocaust scholar, he works on an ethical and theological analysis of the Holocaust and the development of the foundations of 'ethics and theology after Auschwitz'. As chairman of the Center for Peace Ethics, he develops an analysis of the questions of evil, guilt, remembrance, forgiveness and reconciliation.

Didier Pollefeyt has published widely about the ethical and theological problems connected to the encounter of Judaism with Christianity. His latest book is Ethics and Theology after the Holocaust (Leuven, Peeters, 2018).

Journalist and broadcaster Geraldine Doogue in conversation with Francis Sullivan

Geraldine Doogue AO

Geraldine Doogue AO is a renowned Australian journalist and broadcaster, including being at the helm of the ABC's prestigious program Compass for 20 years. In 2003, she was recognised with an Officer in the Order of Australia for services to the community and media. Geraldine often writes thoughtful and challenging articles calling all Catholics to examine how to live out our faith in an increasingly secular world.

Francis Sullivan

Most recently, Francis Sullivan was the straight-talking CEO of The Truth, Justice and Healing Council, established to coordinate the Catholic Church's response to the Royal Commission, help develop the Church's reform. Francis argues for the need of reform, renewal and refreshment in the Church and has been highly successful in bringing a social conscience to the political debate on health and welfare issues.

The Ozanam Conversation (previously the Ozanam Lecture) is a free annual event in honour of the 20-year-old activist and founder of the St Vincent de Paul Society, Blessed Frederic Ozanam. Now in its 22nd year, it invites us to reflect upon how relevant the Society's founding mission of 1833 is to today's world.
