Volunteers Needed Please!

It is clear that the recording of people attending services in the Church will continue to be needed for some extended time. This is the first measure to assist in case tracing the virus has to be implemented in any particular building or locality.

Some members of the Parish Council have been supervising sanitizing hands and ensuring records are taken each time people enter the Church Porch.

Please contact Sr. Heather if you could join a proposed roster for helpers.

The Catholic Conversation Series at St Carthages

Recently twenty parishioners and friends gathered for the first evening in this series.

Fr. Michael outlined more recent research into the person of Jesus and what may have been his mind about what shape his community of believers would be after he had gone.

Remember this was a time when many devout Jewish people believed the end of time was coming soon.

It is highly likely that his own thinking about a community following his time would be very provisional until the end of time occurred.

The early faith communities, called Churches or Assembly of Believers were there waiting for the immanent return of Jesus in power.

This would bring all life and time together.

This is named as the Parousia or return in power of the risen Lord.

The letters of Paul indicate that the realization of the return of the Lord would take sometime and therefore there had to be strategies for a long haul.

It was in this period that the diverse Churches or local faith communities had to work out a structure, who would preside and what would be our Pastoral Strategies until the Lord comes.

The second evening in this series will be in late April!

Newman and the Nineteenth Century Church

CH2163C/3163C/9163C

'Cardinal Newman' has been a household name for more than a century. Now St John Henry Newman, his earthly pilgrimage led him forge both a defence of the faith challenged by rising secularism and also to deep spirituality. He can still enlighten and encourage the contemporary Catholic.
